GRAF LANDS AT AKRON, O., AFTER FIGHTING WINDS

Marooned for 10 Hours by Fitful Gusts From North

EN ROUTE TO THE FAIR

Makes Trip from Miami, Florida, in 12 1/2 Hours

AKRON, O., Oct. 25.—(INS)—Marooned in the air for about ten hours by high winds that blew in from the North in fitful gusts, the German dirigible, Graf Zeppelin, made a safe landing at the airport at Municipal Airport today, completing the first leg of its American flight to the World Fair at Chicago.

Sailing into the skies above Akron 12 1/2 hours out of Miami, Fla., the ship was first sighted over the airport at 7.27 o'clock last night and after riding out a night of rain, sleet and wind squalls, the huge rover dipped to a graceful landing in a driving rain at 5.04 a. m. today.

It was not until 6.05 a. m., however, that the ship was safely berthed inside the gigantic hangar. Dr. Hugo Eckener, the grizzled commander of the globe-trotter, remained aboard until the craft had safely tied down to a large iron ring bolted to the cement floor of the hangar.

Morrisville Man Is Sued By Former Follies Girl

MORRISVILLE, Oct. 25.—Peggy Rich's $250,000 breach of promise suit against Jack de Ruyter—for the Morrisville marriage which never took place—was facing a little technicality today.

According to dispatches from New York, the former Follies dancer can't remarry in that State under terms of the decree her former husband, Freddie Rich, orchestra leader, obtained.

That, at least, is the answer which de Ruyter gave when the suit was filed, and now Justice Albert Cohn, of the New York Supreme Court, has ordered that Miss Rich file answer to this question of technicality before the suit goes to trial.

The dancer brought the suit against de Ruyter several weeks after they had obtained a marriage license from Justice of the Peace Neil Nolan at Morrisville last January 19.

At that time de Ruyter, who was a partner in Peggy's dancing act playing at the Capitol Theatre in Trenton, N. J., postponed the marriage because of illness.

He is a nephew of Mrs. Moses Taylor Campbell, for many years a social leader of New York, and had given up his brokerage business to become Peggy's stage partner shortly after he had been named in her husband's divorce suit.

For a time Broadway heard reports that deRuyter would make a settlement out of court. The settlement issue was rumored after he lost a motion to have her suit thrown out of court.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 25.—Embarking upon President Roosevelt's dollar control plan, the government, through the R. F. C., today announced the new purchase price of gold at $31.36 per ounce. The price was agreed upon at a treasury conference attended by Jesse Jones, chairman of the R. F. C., acting Secretary of the Treasury Dean Acheson, and Henry F. ## FEAR FIREARMS WERE STOLEN BY BANDITS

Thieves Use Noise of Fast Freight to Cover Robbery

TAKE NINE GUNS

PERKASIE, Oct. 25.—Burglars, breaking the window of a hardware store here, used the noise of a fast freight train to cover the noise.

Nine guns were stolen this week when the thieves broke into the Kulp Hardware Company establishment.

Local officials are apprehensive that the thieves may be bandits planning a robbery, and efforts have been sent to all police departments in this part of the State as well as the State Police in an effort to round them up.

The arms stolen were rifles and shotguns, valued at $175. Robbery to sell the stolen goods was apparently the purpose of the thieves, who ignored several blanks, five sheath-knives and many boxes of cartridges and shells to select the nine guns.

The theft was discovered by Clyde Benner, who was returning to his home, near the Kulp store, Sunday morning. Benner saw the broken glass and summoned Chief James Schatz, of the local police.

Schatz found a large piece of paving stone in the street nearby, leading him to believe that the window was broken with this being used as a hammer, and thrown aside after the window-breaker was through with it. The opening in the glass was large enough for a man to enter without difficulty.

The time of the robbery was fixed at a short time before Benner passed the store, and it is possible that his appearance on the scene frightened the men away.

Persons at the American House, a short distance from the store, reported hearing a crash at about the time a freight train was passing through town. The freight, regularly going through at 1.15 a. m., was late on Sunday morning and passed a short time after 2 o'clock.

One stranger in town, who had made a purchase in the Kulp store on Saturday afternoon, was questioned, but it was found that he had no connection with the burglary.

TALK ON POETIC SKETCHES GIVEN LIBRARY SESSION

Mrs. Hugh Graham Speaks At Semi-Annual Meeting, Co. Library Ass'n.

65 WOMEN ASSEMBLE

Several Papers Read at Two Sessions Held In Newtown

NEWTOWN, Oct. 25.—About 65 women from different libraries in the county gathered in the library room here, yesterday, for the semi-annual meeting of the Bucks County Library Association. Mrs. Jane Moon Snipes, of the Fallsington Library, presided; and Mrs. W. A. Roberts, of the Newtown Library, acted as secretary.

Mrs. Freda Bryan, in giving the address of welcome, touched on local history that once claimed the library site as a pasture lot, and other interesting points. Mrs. Snipes, in giving the response, spoke of the appreciation felt by the members for preserving local history. Mention was made in the minutes of the meeting held in the Spring at New Hope, of a check, dated 1822, having been presented to that library by Elias Ely.

Fourteen libraries responded to roll call: Doylestown, Fallsington, Langhorne, New Britain, New Hope, Newtown, Southampton, Wycombe, Yardley, Eureka, Ambler, Hatboro, Lansdale and Farm School library, all giving encouraging reports. These were followed by a most pleasing talk on short poetic sketches, bearing on gardens, by Mrs. Hugh Graham. She quoted several authors who had shown all throughout the years, their love for the beautiful in gardens, citing Solomon, Confucius, 500 B. C., John Keats, Thomas W. Brown, Robert Louis Stevenson, John G. Whittier, Henry Van Dyke, Bliss Carman, and on request, Mrs. Graham gave one of her own poetic sketches.

An invitation was extended by the Doylestown Library for the Association to meet there next April, and Hatboro gave an invitation for the October session.

On adjourning for the noon session, which was held in the Century Club building, tables were provided for all and box lunches were supplemented by fruit, coffee and home-made cake, furnished by the hostess library.

The afternoon session opened with a piano solo rendered by Mrs. Pearson R. Miller, which was greatly appreciated, after which a quartet of boys from the Newtown high school gave two vocal selections, which were met with a hearty applause, to which the boys generously responded. Miss Edith Smith, of the New Hope library, on request, read a selection, "What is happening in the world of books," the reviewer basing his criticism as a reader and not as a professional critic.

The paper, "Adventures with Books," prepared by Miss Alice R. Eaton, of Harrisburg, who was unable to be present, was read by Miss Margaret Ely, of the New Hope library. The paper, "Practical Application of Word Building," by Miss Dorothy Steckel, of Newtown, was most pleasingly presented. Miss Steckel said, among other things, "Words are signs of thought and thoughts make history." Miss Evelyn L. Matthews, of the Library Extension of the State Library, Harrisburg, expressed her pleasure at the ever increasing interest shown in Bucks County in library work.

Miss Ely, New Hope, chairman of the nominating committee, named Miss Jarrett, of the Hatboro library, as president for the next two years, and Mrs. MacAntee, of Doylestown, as secretary. Mrs. Snipes then extended an invitation for the incoming officers to come forward and be presented to the members of the Association, after which the meeting adjourned.

Percy Ford as the hero's father, a billionaire button manufacturer from Boston, and Howard Smoyer as the gangster, give interesting character studies.

Rehearsals will be held each day at the high school auditorium, at four o'clock for the chorus, and any girls between the ages of 16 and 20 who are interested in singing and dancing are invited to attend, as a large chorus is to be used with special costumes, and interesting dance routines will be staged.

The main cast will rehearse every night at eight o'clock.

ANOTHER IDEA

Creation of a third house of Congress is among the latest proposals to grow out of the new deal's functioning.

But it would not be a political body, to the certain disappointment of politicians who welcome all moves aimed at increasing Federal offices and jobs.

The idea comes from the same professional class that has aided in placing the new deal in operation and which has come to be known as the "brain trust." Professor J. Anton de Haas, of Harvard, is its sponsor.

The purpose of the third house, as explained by de Haas, would be to act as a planning center for business and industry. It would be composed of delegates from the key divisions and its duty would be to enforce self-discipline among the industries, forcing them to substitute for the old policy of producing for profit that of producing only what was needed and wanted.

While seeing in the national recovery administration "a great step forward," Professor de Haas believes that a better plan of industrial control "is yet to be evolved." He has a general idea of what is needed. "A manufacturer should not decide himself to gamble his money and all he can borrow to try and find out whether his product is needed or not, with consequent upwelling of the market if he duplicates another's work, or less to himself and investors if there is no market."

This matter would be decided by the third house, though why it would not be as liable to error as would an individual manufacturer the professor does not explain. Presumably, it would reach its decision only after conducting a long investigation by experts. But that, as we see it, would constitute no guarantee against mistakes.

This is the day of new ideas, and the Harvard professor's deserves to be placed on the shelf with the numerous others already advanced and awaiting possible consideration.

Football, pumpkin pie, oysters and no Congress until January— who says we are downhearted?

Why is it the "long noses" will worry about your extra hour of leisure and forget you when you have all leisure and no work?

Coal bills, winter clothing, school supplies, fall house furnishings— try to carry the ball through that line without losing it.

CHAPTER FORTY-THREE

Now Tommy wouldn't have his graduation spoiled by any of his hick relations running over there in tin cans like a circus wagon coming into a grand ball or something like that. If Mom didn't go that would settle the whole thing for all the rest of them.

Later that week she got the grandest letter from her boy. He was so sorry she couldn't come and he had been counting on it and she was the grandest mother in the world and he would have been so proud of her; and she was responsible for everything fine which had ever happened to him and he would never forget her or be able to repay her no matter how he tried.

Mom cried when she read it and that night she read it again and put it under her pillow and thought of things. Just that letter was worth the disappointment of not seeing her boy in all of his glory. Mom knew now how much she had wanted to go—how she had looked forward to every little detail of it.

But she had gone a long time without seeing a Thorndyke graduation and like as not it would have been disappointing anyhow—and it would pass away and she'd forget it like everything else.

But that letter would never pass away, she would keep it always and read it over and over when her Tommy got even greater than he was. Nobody could take that away from her—and the knowledge that her boy wasn't ashamed of his mother after all.

And the next day she let Mrs. Johnson read it and Mrs. Johnson cried when she read it; and Mrs. Johnson told Mrs. Flannigan and she came over and asked to read it and when she had finished she broke right down and cried and said, "My God, ain't it grand?"

Mom knew the two of them would tell Mrs. Farrell but Mom didn't hear what Mrs. Farrell said. "I notice," she said, "that she didn't have any fancy letter like that to show until after he knew she wasn't coming."

"Why, Miss Farrell," said Mrs. Johnson, "you don't think any boy would treat his own mother that way?"

"My Jole wouldn't."

"My Buddy wouldn't."

"I know my Florine wouldn't."

Mrs. Farrell looked at Mrs. Flannigan; each knew what the other was thinking—if there was anything her Florine hadn't done or wouldn't do, they'd like to know about it.

Mom didn't go around Butcher Brown's store any more than she had to for awhile because she couldn't stand Mrs. Farrell's bragging. At first it was all about her going to go to Jole's graduation; then it was all about how grand it had been; and although anybody could see everybody was sick and tired of hearing about it she just kept it up, a regular talking machine; as if anybody cared about what her Jole did or about him going to come back to Athens and work for Charlie Whitney at the factory.

"What'd he go to college for if he's going to work in the factory?"

Uncle Louie said, "He might as well have been working there all the time."

"He's going to work on some new stuff, colored ware and all that," Pop said. "Sabote time somebody's getting some new ideas or the place'll be shut down all together."

"Yeh—but you don't expect that shrimp Jole Farrell to think up anything, do you?"

For once Pop and Uncle Louie agreed; but Uncle Louie had to have the last word. "Seems to me Charlie Whitney's got a lot of money to waste."

But Pop would never stand for anybody talking about Charlie Whitney. "Well, it's his money, ain't it? How do you know he's wasting it, anyhow? Jole was bright in school, wasn't he? He studied to be a chemist, didn't he, in college?"

Uncle Louie laughed, a dry kind of a superior laugh that always made Pop mad. "That proves he's dumb and it proves Charlie Whitney's wasting his money; why should anybody have to take up chemistry to work in a glass house?"

Mom knew Pop wondered about that, too; everybody wondered; but Pop wouldn't give him the satisfaction, after that laugh he got even in another way. "Some of the people that's knockin' Charlie Whitney wouldn't be eatin' now if it wasn't for him—he's running the factory far over orders and putting the ware in stock just to keep everybody workin'."

Uncle Louie took it as a personal insult and got up and left. But it wasn't long until the town forgot all about Jole Farrell and his chemistry; and his mother had to quit her bragging because nobody would listen to her. She had to sit way back in the shade.

"It got so I could hardly go in there any more," Mrs. Flannigan said to Mom; "you'd think that runt Jole was somebody and here he's never been more'n a hundred miles from home and my Buddy's been all over the world—yet you

What Every Car Owner Should Know About the Pennsylvania Automobile Financial-Responsibility
Law

1. Under the act, if a final judgment is recovered against you in excess of $200, you cannot drive your car again nor can you register a car until the judgment is satisfied. Whether this judgment amounts to $201 or $10,000* makes no difference. Your license and registration remain suspended until you pay the judgment and show proof of financial responsibility for future accidents.*

2. Your license and registration may also be suspended until you furnish proof of financial responsibility for certain violations of the motor vehicle laws or when within twelve months you have had two accidents causing injuries to persons or property in the total amount of $200.

3. In other words, if you do not carry an Automobile Liability Insurance Policy in substantial amounts, you run the risk of having to pay a judgment up to $10,000 out of your own pocket or of losing the privilege of driving and owning an automobile.

4. The sensible thing to do is carry Automobile Liability Insurance and this insurance should be obtained TODAY. You need this protection regardless of the requirements of the law which becomes effective Jan. 1, 1934.

The Community Paper and Your Indebtedness To It!

The value of a newspaper to the community in which it circulates is inestimable.

This statement may on the surface appear to be one of bragadocio, but if carefully analyzed by the thoughtful individual, it will prove true.

A community newspaper is continually giving valuable service and support to every activity in the area in which it circulates. It gives publicity to the activities of organizations of a religious, civic, fraternal, social and patriotic nature. This publicity is not charged for, but is given gratuitously and oftentimes but little appreciated. Those benefiting therefrom, in a thoughtless manner, take it for granted that the publicity given is news, when many, many times it is nothing more than free advertising for the various organizations.

Column after column of free publicity for churches, schools, lodges, women's organizations, civic movements, and legitimately established merchants, informing the public that they have taken on a new line of merchandise or in some manner are endeavoring to better cater to the wants of their patrons, are given in every newspaper published today. The publishers of a newspaper do not expect to be paid for such items, and no charge is ever made therefor. Those receiving the benefits of this publicity, however, can and oftentimes do reciprocate in various ways.

The average community newspaper today has three sources of revenue upon which it depends for sustenance: its paid subscription list; the income received from advertising; and the revenue which is derived from its commercial printing department which is a valuable adjunct to practically every community newspaper.

The merchants use the paid advertising columns of the publication, and thereby recompense the publisher. Churches, schools, lodges, women's organizations, and those sponsoring civic movements, can pay their indebtedness to the publication for the free space given by placing orders for whatever commercial printing they may need, thereby showing their gratitude for the aid rendered by the publication.

Those who are interested in the community in which they reside or in which they have formerly resided contribute their share to the community paper by subscribing therefor.

Unless adequate support is received by community publications as herein set forth, the publication cannot prosper and render adequate service to any community.

Are you as an individual or organization doing your part in supporting your community newspaper? Are you using its paid advertising columns; subscribing for the publication; or patronizing its third source of revenue—commercial printing department?

As an individual you can do your part by making it your personal business to see that the publication which supports your organization is subscribed for; or when paid advertising is to be placed, that it is placed in the publication which has been generous in granting the free use of its columns; or by having your commercial printing done by the organization sponsoring the publication.

I keep coming back to that word "balanced" on the back of the Chesterfield package

YOU often hear the word balance—something is out of balance—top-heavy, not on an "even keel."

What you read, "Chesterfield Cigarettes are a balanced blend," means that the right amounts of the right kinds of tobacco are welded together; that is, home-grown tobaccos, the right kind, the right quantity—are blended and cross-blended with tobaccos from Turkey and Greece.

When these tobaccos are balanced one against the other, then you have a mild cigarette.

When they are in balance, then you have a better-tasting cigarette.

May we ask you to read again the statement on the back of the Chesterfield package? May we ask you to try Chesterfield?
